

COUNCIL FOR
HOMEOPATHIC CERTIFICATION

Kelly Weatherly, B.A, CNHP, DHP
CHC Director, Public Member

Kelly Weatherly, B.A., CNHP, DHP is a graduate from Asbury University, a traditional natural health practitioner, digestive health professional, and volunteer board member for Americans for Homeopathy Choice. Kelly brings with her several years of experience working with non-profits, from their infancy to their required certifications. She believes it is important for the homeopathic community, including like-minded non-profits to work together, encourage, and support one another.

After experiencing life-changing events within her family, she began seeking out additional health-healing opportunities. This led her to discovering homeopathy and seeing it as a great additional health care choice. She is always excited to share this information with others, encouraging them to seek-out homeopathic care for their families as well as pets.

Being a part of the Council for Homeopathic Certification gives her continued opportunities to encourage and educate others about homeopathy and the importance of growing and allowing homeopathy to be a form of recognized health care medicine.
